COMMENT OF THE DAY

Budget Debate

As expected, the Unofficial Council were not in a severely critical mood when they debated the Budget yesterday. The disarming effect of the Financial Secretary's presentation of his Appropriations Bill was plainly visible. The general tone adopted by the speakers was that of being thankful for small mercies. The public, however, will share the several times repeated apprehension over the ever-increasing cost of administration and will trust that the Hon. Leo D'Almeida obtains a reassuring reply to his query as to whether the efficiency expert's report, now nearly three years old, has been made practically effective in such a manner as to achieve savings in administrative overheads. If the debate did not provide any verbal fireworks, it did serve to show that the Unofficials are well alive to public needs. A good argument was advanced for an early improvement to the Kowloon ferry wharf circuit; the plea for better street lighting was well founded; the suggestion that when the present Kowloon Hospital is removed the site should be devoted to a children's playground was admirably conceived; the opinion that even more attention should be devoted to primary education in Hongkong merits the close attention of the Director of Education. None of these propositions runs seriously counter to official policy already enunciated and each and everyone contains merits which justify measured consideration.

THE relief engendered by the absence of any proposal to increase direct taxation in the coming financial year is matched by the sense of hope that the restalling of the Internal Revenue Department will produce comparable results in tax collecting. There is still a widespread conviction amongst those taxpayers who have met their obligations regularly and in full that a considerable amount of evasion is going on. The desire is that the Internal Revenue Department will now be in a position, not only to catch up with arrears of work, but to track down those who cheat the Treasury of revenue by deliberately evading direct taxation.

SEVERAL Unofficials yesterday reiterated the plea that any future search for increased revenue should be made as painlessly as possible, and that new calls on the pocket should be spread as widely as practicable over the community. The Financial Secretary doubtless appreciates the point. The Hon. C. E. Terry also made a neat contribution to the debate by requesting that Government does all it can to ensure that the maximum amount of revenue, due from existing taxation, is collected. He aptly expressed the sentiment in metaphorical form by requesting that before we start to scrape the bottom of our taxation bucket, we should make sure we have not only skimmed the cream from the top, but have also properly cleaned it round the sides. The proposition is commended as the fairest way of making good the deficit for which the Financial Secretary has found it necessary to budget.

First Chinese Peeress In British History

Above is a recent photograph of Lady Lindsay who, through the death of her father-in-law this week, becomes the first Chinese peeress in British history. Formerly Miss Hsiao Li, she married Mr Michael Lindsay in Peking in 1911. Her husband has succeeded to the title of Lord Lindsay of Birker.

Mice & Monkeys Catapulted 80 Miles Into Space, And Live

Washington, Mar. 19. An American Air Force scientist told today of a V-2 rocket catapulted 80 miles up into space with live monkeys and mice aboard. It was a preliminary test aimed at learning eventually whether man could fly in the outer space, or in the border-zone of space ranging up to an altitude of 120 miles. The mice were still living and propagating freely, he said.

LORRIES STONED BY STRIKERS

Chatham, England, Mar. 19. Strong police reinforcements from Rochester and other towns moved into the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's new refinery at the Isle of Grain near here today to deal with strikers who stoned lorries passing through the pickets' lines. One driver was hurt by flying glass. Nearly 4,000 men, employed by the oil company on construction work, are striking for increased pay, better welfare facilities and an afternoon tea break. They came out on an unofficial strike yesterday and were joined by night workers. The strikers stopped all lorries delivering goods to parts of the site being worked by the Macalpine Company. After some stone throwing at lorries, officials called for police help. A spokesman for the company said today that negotiations were going on. Union leaders have asked the men to return to work while their grievances are discussed. It is understood. The refinery which is due to go into operation next year will process 4,000,000 tons of crude oil from the Middle East each year.—Reuter.

QUAKE RECORDED

New York, Mar. 19. An earth tremor described as very violent was recognised by the seismograph at Fordham University here today. Mr Joseph Lynch, of the University, said that the tremor had occurred some 14,000 kilometres from New York, probably in the Netherlands East Indies. France-Press.

The five monkeys survived the actual flight but four of them were killed when parachutes bringing them back to earth failed to open. The fifth monkey landed safely but died of heat prostration in the New Mexico desert. As the monkeys rode in the nose of a rocket, they were equipped with instruments for measuring pulse, breathing, heart action and blood pressure, and the information was radioed back to the earth all during the flight.

MOVEMENTS PHOTOGRAPHED

The mice were free to run and jump during the flight, and all the time their movements were being automatically photographed. Today's news followed the announcement of the use of monkeys in rocket experiments made in Toronto by an Editor of Colliers magazine who predicted that within 10 years human beings would be able to make the trip to the moon and back. Details of the rocket experiment were told at a meeting of the Aero Medical Association here by Dr. J. P. Henry of the Air Force Aero Medical Laboratory at Wright-Patterson Base, Dayton, Ohio. The tests were designed to determine the physical and psychological effects of being made "weightless" under certain conditions of extreme altitude flight—a possible hazard that would face man in the regions of free space. Dr. Henry said this "gravity free" condition could be produced for several minutes as a rocket fell freely, with downward acceleration exactly equal to the earth's gravity. "The monkeys and mice apparently got through it all right," he said. All the monkeys actually "stepped" through their 1,800 miles per hour ride because they were under an anaesthetic.—Reuter.

German Peace Pact: Big 4 Meeting "Probable"

Western Powers May Require Conditions

Paris, Mar. 19. The French Foreign Office said tonight it seemed "very probable" that there might be a meeting between the Western Powers and Russia to discuss the Russian note calling for a German peace treaty. A spokesman said that such a meeting might take place at the level of the Foreign Ministers' deputies or the three Western High Commissioners in Germany might meet their Soviet counterpart, General Vassilij I. Chulikov. Britain's Foreign Secretary, Mr Anthony Eden, and the French Foreign Minister, M. Robert Schuman, will meet American diplomats here tonight to discuss the latest Western draft reply to the Soviet proposals. Mr Eden arrived here by air this morning with the text of the Western draft in his pocket. The British Foreign Secretary is here also for the meeting of the Council of Europe's 14 Foreign Ministers. After they have completed the business before them, later in the week Mr Eden and his French and American colleagues are expected to get down to the final draft of the reply to Russia.

CERTAIN CONDITIONS

A usually reliable source here said today that the Western Powers reply to the Soviet note is likely to agree to talks with the Russians on certain conditions. The Russians would have to make clear what size they proposed for a national German army. They would also have to explain the reference in their note to Germany's eligibility for membership in the United Nations and state whether the terms under which West Germany could receive near independence and the occupation be ended would apply to the whole of a reunited Germany. The Western Powers would not immediately insist that the Russians allow the United Nations Commission on all-German elections to investigate conditions in East Germany as a proof of good faith before the talks began, it was added.

PROPOSITION DEMAND

A West German official said that the Foreign Ministers of Britain, France and West Germany and the American Ambassador to France would meet in Paris tomorrow or Friday to decide the reply, the Ambassador acting for the United States Secretary of State, Mr Dean Acheson.

MASS MALAY EVACUATION

Kuala Lumpur, Mar. 20. The entire Malay population of isolated Belum Valley—near the Thailand border into which British paratroops were dropped to drive off Communist terrorists—have been evacuated to prevent terrorists exploiting them. Terrorists have proclaimed an "independent state" in Belum. The order for the Malays to plant food for them and offered them arms with which to attack security forces. The evacuation was made on foot. For seven days they walked through jungle and across streams and rivers. The youngest marcher was five, the oldest 80. Three pregnant women were among them. After the villagers left security forces burned down all huts in their village and destroyed the crops to prevent them falling into terrorist hands. The evacuees are to be camped in Kuantan for some time and will afterwards be allowed to go where they like.—Associated Press.

Grave Diggers Begin Task In Condemned Village

Tignes, French Alps, Mar. 19. Grave diggers, supervised by a special team from a Paris undertaking firm today cleared the pathways to the tombs in the tiny cemetery of Tignes soon to be under the water of France's biggest dam. Most villagers have given their consent to the removal of their dead and in a few days the rest are expected to acquiesce. The Prefect has ordered the special police barring access to the cemetery to be withdrawn and allow the villagers to visit the tombs for the last time. Meanwhile, the waters of the Isere River are mounting slowly in the Tignes Valley at the rate of three feet a day. In two weeks' time the flooding of the Tignes is expected to begin. About 100 villagers who have vowed to remain until their compensation is increased showed no sign that they were preparing to evacuate.—Reuter.

"Ike" Happy Over Primary Returns

Paris, Mar. 19. General Dwight Eisenhower happily studied the returns from the Minnesota primary election today and visitors said he got "more jovial" by the hour. "Keep shoving those bulletins to me as fast they come in," a general on Eisenhower's Supreme Headquarters staff was ordered.

General Eisenhower spent the day at his office, conferring on military matters and studying bulletins from Minnesota. He posed for photographers as he left at 1452 GMT and smiled, but remained silent.

"It is the general's decision to permit photographers, but there will be no statement," said his press chief, Brig-Gen. Lannan. "It is his decision. I speak for the general." General Eisenhower smiled at flash bulbs' wait off and he strode to his waiting car. But the feeling was evident that he must be impressed by what a course close to him called the "amazing and incredible" Minnesota write-in vote.—United Press.

RAF Plane Crashes At Stanley

A twin-engined single seater RAF Hornet fighter crashed into Stanley Bay at about 10.30 a.m. this morning. The pilot is believed to have been killed, but this could not be confirmed.

A Chinese working at Banoo Villa said that he heard the aircraft approaching from the direction of Wong Ma Kok. He added that the plane sounded as though it had developed engine trouble and when it arrived over Stanley Bay it nose dived into the sea.

A flying boat and a destroyer are searching for the wreckage. Police under the direction of Mr A. L. Gordon, AFP and Sub. Insp. K. Macleod are assisting in the search.

KAI TAK ACCIDENT An RAF Gloucester Meteor crashed while landing at Kai Tak at noon today. There were no casualties. The undercarriage of the jet aircraft collapsed after it had touched down on the runway facing the sea. Incoming planes were held up for half an hour while the jet was being removed.

Seaman Alleges He Was Chained To Bridge

Seattle, Mar. 19. A young Canadian seaman charged today that his captain had chained him to the bridge of the freighter Clyde Seavey for 67 days on a voyage half way around the world.

William Olynik, 27, asked for $100,000 damages from the shipping company concerned because of the chaining and because "I was made the object of ridicule and curiosity at ports the ship visited."

The attorneys for the steamship company said that Olynik was disciplined because he was "subordinate and mutinous". The company accused Olynik of kidnapping Captain Williams in the groin during an argument at Jakarta.

FOUND INNOCENT

Olynik said that when the ship docked at Houston, Texas, he was tried and found innocent of assaulting the captain.

He said that one of the ship's mates brought a girl friend aboard when the ship stopped at another port and showed him off as a "chained curiosity". He said in court that the original argument started after he and his shipmates went aboard following a party in Jakarta.

"Two days later the captain and two mates came armed to the mess hall, put me in handcuffs and fastened me to the port rail of the bridge with a leg iron," Olynik said.

"In a few days I was moved to the starboard bridge rail and attached to a chain 12 feet long."—United Press.

Peking Puts Out Feeler

Tokyo, Mar. 19.

Communist China was prepared to conclude trade contracts and agreements through negotiations with other countries on the basis of mutual equality and benefit, Peking Radio said tonight.

The Radio was quoting the Director-General of the People's Bank of China, Mr. Nam Han-chang, who was speaking at the head of the Chinese delegation to the coming International Economic Conference in Moscow.

The broadcast said that the 22-member delegation, including "leading personalities in the field of industry, trade, co-operatives and trade unions and manufacturing, import and export companies," left Peking for Moscow yesterday.—Reuter.

Eden Gives Warning To Europe

Paris, Mar. 19.

After today's meeting of the Council of Europe's Ministerial Committee, a British spokesman said that the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden, had told the Committee that it would seriously prejudice Britain's relations with the Council if its Statute were changed to make it a "quasi-federal institution."

Mr. Eden was presenting a proposal for remodelling the Council of Europe to give it political authority over the Schuman coal and steel pool and the European army.

The spokesman said that Mr. Eden told the Ministers he wanted to bring the Council of Europe into close relationship with both the European community and the Atlantic community.

He said that the new draft Statute proposed by the Consultative Assembly to give the Council more authority changed the character of the institution in the British view into a quasi-federal institution.

If the new Statute were adopted it would make it very difficult for the United Kingdom and would seriously prejudice her relationship with the Council of Europe.

Although many of the nations in the Council of Europe were not members of the Schuman pool or of the European defence community, Mr. Eden was confident that a system could be evolved to enable the Council to continue its work as an organ for co-operation between the governments of Western Europe.

SECRET MALAN PLAN TO DEAL WITH TROUBLE

Johannesburg, Mar. 19.

Dr Malan's Government is maintaining close secrecy on any steps contemplated if the Supreme Court Appeals Division in Bloemfontein rules against it tomorrow on the "coloured voters" issue.

Four coloured voters of Capetown are appealing to the Court to upset the Separate Representation of Voters' Act by declaring that the entrenched clauses of the South Africa Act remain in force.

The entrenched clauses provide that legislation depriving any section of Cape Province voters of certain rights must be passed by a two-thirds majority of the House of Assembly and the Senate at a joint sitting.

The Government maintain that since the Statute of Westminster in 1927 South Africa is no longer bound by the clauses.

It was, therefore, legal to have the Separate Representation of Voters' Act passed individually by the two Houses of Parliament by a simple majority.

The Act is one of the cornerstones of Dr. Malan's Nationalist Government's racial segregation policy. It removes coloured voters from the common electoral roll, places them on a separate roll and provides that they shall vote only for special members of the House of Assembly who will specifically represent coloured people.

Until the passing of the Act last year coloured voters of Cape Province had the right to vote with whites for any candidate standing in their constituency.

Recent statements by the Prime Minister suggest that the Government would not call an immediate general election if the decision went against it.

A logical interpretation of these statements would seem to be that it would simply pass indemnifying legislation or proceed with the Act as though it were valid and go to the country in the normal way next year and ask the electorate to ratify its action.

A decision to proceed with the Act would rest on the unanimous judgment by a full bench of five Judges of the Appellate Court in 1937 declaring Parliament no longer was bound by the entrenched clauses of the Constitution. South Africa has attained absolute sovereignty and "the procedure of Parliament like everything else is at the mercy of Parliament."

NEEDED: A SENSE OF URGENCY

Washington, Mar. 19.

A Senate "Watchdog" Committee said tonight that "the responsible for the nation's current rearmament programme lack the sense of urgency that had previously goaded Americans into their tremendous preparedness achievements."

The Senate Armed Services Preparedness Sub-Committee said that it was deeply disturbed over the lack of perspective as to the great danger that confronts the nation.

It expressed deep concern over the production of munitions.

"We feel that this question is of such transcendent importance that the Committee is giving the highest priority to investigations of the bottlenecks which have impeded the output of fighting equipment. The first of these investigations is the one on aircraft upon which we will hold hearings within the next few weeks."

The Committee said that the rearmament programme had produced "a small number of guns and a great amount of butter with a considerable number of lollipops thrown in."

Deliveries of defence goods—planes, tanks, ammunition and guns—had fallen dangerously behind schedule so that the chances of reaching minimum preparedness targets within the time set by the military planners seemed remote.—Reuter.

TUNISIAN PREMIER MAY BE REPLACED

Paris, Mar. 19.
The replacement of the Premier, Mohammed Chenik, by a more moderate Tunisian was the big issue at a French Cabinet meeting today.

No official announcement was made except that new instructions would be communicated to the French Resident-General, Comte Jean de Hautecloque, this week after further inter-ministerial discussion.

Political divergences are regarded as the cause of the rejection of these instructions due to have been finally drafted today. The instructions, as they now stand, call for the removal from office of the Premier, who is regarded by several French Ministers as too pronounced in his support for the Neo-Destour Nationalist Party. They associate Chenik with some responsibility for the recent riots in Tunisia.

The Foreign Minister, M. Robert Schuman, today seemed reluctant to sanction such a drastic measure.

The instructions also define how far the French are prepared to go at this stage to satisfy the Tunisian Nationalist aspirations. Substantial reforms will be offered, notably in municipal administration and economic and financial affairs, though the French will not concede to the claims for self-government of Tunisia.—Reuter.

UNION SUPPORT

Brussels, Mar. 19.
The International Confederation of Free Trade Unions will tomorrow send to the French Government a strongly-worded statement supporting Tunisian claims to self-government, a spokesman of the Federation's headquarters said tonight.

"The declaration will reflect our belief that the cause of the Tunisians is just and that they must be supported by our organization in their struggle," the spokesman added.

The statement is based on the report of M. Pierre Linger, a trade union leader who recently visited Tunisia on behalf of the CFTU.

Subsequently, the Secretary-General of the Federation, M. H. O'Brien, made direct representations to M. Schuman on the latest position, and a cable addressed to the French Foreign Minister requested recognition of the Federation's spokesman said.—Reuter.

Charge Of Germ Warfare Called "Disgraceful"

London, Mar. 19.
Renewed charges that the United Nations Command in Korea had taken to germ warfare are fantastic and disgraceful, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

He was commenting on a front page story in the Communist newspaper Daily Worker.

This quoted a cable it said had been received in London from the International Commission of Enquiry which is in Korea "investigating American germ warfare."

The cable said, according to the newspaper, "We have obtained evidence, which in our opinion is conclusive, that the United Nations Command in Korea has been found in the last weeks in many districts."

"Many of these insects have been found to be infected by cholera, typhus, plague and other diseases."

The cable, received by D. N. Pritt, a Minister with left-wing sympathies, said that the insects had been found in circumstances which indicated that they were deposited in groups and clusters from the air. They followed the visit of circling aircraft and the finding of the remains of containers.

Questioned about the Daily Worker's article, a Foreign Office spokesman said, "When the Communist allegations were first made we did not believe them to contain any truth. The British Government made enquiries of the United States Government and the United Nations Command in Korea. We received categorical assurances that no bacteriological warfare had been undertaken or contemplated in the Korean war."

"Mr. Dean Acheson, United States Secretary of State, himself has announced that there was no truth in the Communist charges."

"Mr. Acheson made an offer to the Communists that an impartial investigation should be made by the International Red Cross. The Communists, for reasons best known to themselves, have so far not accepted Mr. Acheson's offer."

"The British Government is completely satisfied that the charges are without any foundation in fact, and are a deliberate attempt to mislead the public."

The spokesman said that British troops were in the front line in Korea and their commanders had been able to corroborate the denials made by the United Nations Command.

Mr. Pritt, a Queen's Counsel, is President of the International Association of Democratic Lawyers which sent the "Investigation Commission" to Korea.

The members are given by the Daily Worker as: Signor Brandewier (Austria), Signor Cavallotti (Italy), Signor de Brato (Brazil), Mr. Jack Gasser (Britain), M. Janvier (France), Ho Po-nien (China), Mr. Moorens (Belgium), Madame Wasilokovska (Poland).

"With the exception of Mr. Gasser none of the lawyers from Western Europe are members of Communist parties," the newspaper declared.—Reuter.

RUMOURS OF KOREA ARMISTICE

Reports Spread By Communist Newsmen

Received With Skepticism By Allied Officials

Munsan, Mar. 20.

Truce negotiators neared agreement today in the dispute over ports of entry amid Communist-inspired rumours of an armistice by mid-April. There was little outward evidence to support the rumours beyond the narrowing of the issues blocking a Korean truce.

Staff officers working on safeguards for a truce (agenda item 3) arranged to meet at Panmunjom at 11:00 a.m. for a try at a full settlement on which five ports of entry on each side will be used to bring replacement supplies and troops into Korea during a truce.

They came close to an agreement yesterday.

Simultaneously another set of staff officers meets to discuss prisoner exchange (agenda item 4), deadlocked over the issue of voluntary or forced repatriation.

Rumours of a truce by mid-April stemmed from statements outside the conference tents by Communist propagandist-cum-reporters covering the Panmunjom talks.

The Red newsmen, whose remarks often mirror official Communist thinking, have talked for the past five days of an armistice about April 15.

They intimated that this was the view of the Communist truce delegation, but they offered no explanation or hint as to their motives in planting the rumours.

Wary Allied officials, mindful of the ups and downs in the negotiations of nearly eight and a half months, took no notice publicly of the rumours and privately viewed them with skepticism.

Staff officers' discussions on prisoner exchange yesterday failed to make any progress and recessed after 23 minutes when both sides said they were not prepared to answer questions submitted earlier this week.—Associated Press.

Key West, Florida, Mar. 19.
Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney today expressed the view that the chances for peace in Korea are looking up.

"I can sense an air of confidence not present 30 to 60 days ago," he said.

With some qualifications, Mr. McKinney had earlier linked President Truman's political future to the possibility of a peace in Korea.

After a three-day conference with the President, Mr. McKinney said that in his opinion the President will not seek re-election if there is a satisfactory peace in Korea.

He hoped that the President would keep up his mind one way or another by May 15 when the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party meets in Washington to plan the July nominating convention.

Mr. McKinney said, "It may be wishful thinking, but it is hoped that the Korean situation can be resolved by convention time. It is my opinion that the President's decision will be predicated on the success or failure of the Korean situation."

RESTRAINED HOPES
Reporters pressed the Chairman for reasons for believing that a Korean settlement might be reached.

"Is there anything new to encourage the hope," he was asked.

Anna Neagle Invested With CBE

London, Mar. 19.
Screen actress Anna Neagle was invested with the insignia of a Commander of the British Empire today.

Wearing a wide-brimmed black straw hat and a tailored suit, the British star went to Buckingham Palace to receive her accolade from the Queen's uncle, the Duke of Gloucester. She curtsied low before the Duke at an investiture ceremony held in the Palace Ballroom.

Miss Neagle was one of 270 Britons to receive awards and decorations at the second investiture of Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother. The awards were granted by her late father, King George VI, in the New Year's Honours List just before his death.

Despite Court mourning, the ceremony lacked none of its usual colour. Sixty men, dressed in full military uniform, lined up to collect medals, were black umbrellas on their uniforms—but they walked to the accompaniment of an orchestra playing tunes from "South Pacific".—Associated Press.

He replied, "No, but everybody seems to think this. The thing cannot be dragged out very much longer."

In recent days reports from Korea have indicated an embankment of restrained optimism around truce headquarters.

Yesterday the Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, said he was confident that a truce will be worked out.

TRUMAN'S PLANS
Mr. McKinney gave several versions of how a Korean peace settlement will affect President Truman's decision.

In summing up all of them he said, "I think he feels a sense of responsibility. I am inclined to think that if the Korean situation is resolved and a permanent peace achieved, he would consider his job well done."

To the question "Does that mean that if there is peace he won't run?" Mr. McKinney replied, "I said he would consider it a job well done."

When he was asked "Would peace in Korea lessen the chances of his running again?" Mr. McKinney's answer was, "He didn't tell me that in so many words but that was my impression."

"President Truman is more concerned at the present time with the Korea situation and the welfare of the country. I gathered that he has not given so much thought to his candidacy."—United Press.

Exploitation Of Bauxite Suggested

Tokyo, Mar. 19.
The Japan Light Metal Association is to approach the Japanese Government with a plan to develop bauxite deposits amounting to 3,020,000 tons in the Sambas area of Southwest Borneo.

The association will, shortly submit to the Resources Board data regarding the development plan and will seek the approval of the Government in negotiations with the Indonesian Government on development of bauxite mining in the Sambas area, in Sukawati province.

Bauxite deposits in the Sambas area were first discovered by Mr. Norimasa Nagabuchi, adviser of the Taiheyo Coal Mining Company, who also discovered bauxite deposits on Palau island.

Mr. Nagabuchi discovered bauxite deposits during his mineral resources exploration tour in 1942 to 1943 as a member of the resources survey party, then sponsored by the Japanese Navy.

His data revealed that bauxite deposits situated two to three kilometers from the sea coast of Southwest Borneo and can be mined by open cast mining.—France-Press.

Reshuffle In Ottawa

Ottawa, Mar. 19.
The Canadian diplomat, Dana Wilgress, who has taken an active part in European affairs, is to return to Ottawa to become Canada's Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs.

The Prime Minister, Mr. St. Laurent announced this today among several appointments in a diplomatic reshuffle.

Mr. Wilgress who had long experience of commercial questions in Europe from the first World War became Canadian Ambassador to Soviet Russia in 1942. For the last three years he has been High Commissioner in London.

Mr. Wilgress was President of three annual sessions of GATT (General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs) at Havana, Geneva and Torquay—Reuter.

Still Waiting For Reply

Bonn, Mar. 19.
The United Nations Commission which arrived here last Sunday to investigate conditions for free and democratic elections in all four zones of Germany will fly to Berlin tomorrow afternoon. The Commission had still not received by tonight a reply from the Soviet authorities in East Germany to its requests of last February and this month to be given facilities to investigate conditions in East Germany.

Its programme in West Berlin, therefore, provides for only for meetings with West Berlin's Lord Mayor, Herr Ernst Reuter, and other German and Western Allied officials.—Reuter.

THREAT TO KILL AN INFORMER

Montreal, Mar. 19.
A janitor who helped the police capture a notorious Canadian gunman said today that he had received four threatening letters, including one with a set of clippings from New York newspapers on the slaying of Arnold Schuster.

The janitor tipped off the police last week that a man fitting the description of Leonard Jackson, 29, was living in one of the apartments. Police rushed there, and captured Jackson after a 45-minute gun battle. Jackson is recovering in hospital from four bullet wounds.

The informer told police today that a letter with clippings on Schuster—who was slain after identifying the bank robber Willie Sutton—said: "You can laugh now about squealing on Jackson, but in the end you'll have a hand full of lead."

Another letter, from Toronto, said: "We will get you if it takes three years."

Although the janitor was not named, he has been identified as a building superintendent who occupied the apartment next to Jackson's, making it relatively easy to address letters to him. Newspapers published the address of the house but, at the request of the police, refrained from naming the tipster.—United Press.

Progress In Debt Talks

London, Mar. 19.
Several sub-committees and one negotiating committee of the 28-nation German Debts Conference met here today to continue work on the highly technical data.

A source close to the talks said that it was difficult at this stage to assess the progress but it was generally satisfactory.

Considerable headway had already been made on certain specific debts though all negotiations were still in their preliminary stages.

The committee which met today dealt with Reich and other public authorities' debts. There are 12 creditor sub-committees for tackling specific loans.

The Steering Committee is expected to meet here this week to decide on an Easter recess.—Reuter.

Killed In Vat Of Cider

London, Mar. 19.
Two men were killed by fumes in a cider vat at Chard, Somerset, one of them in attempting to save the other.

The man who gave his life for a friend and workmate was Mr. Tom Miller, a foreman employed by Bruton, Mitchell, and Tom, brewers of Chard.

His friend, was Mr. George Linton, who collapsed when cleaning out the vat.

WAR NOT GREATEST THREAT

Ithaca, N.Y., Mar. 19.
General Albert Wedemeyer today warned that war was not the only or the greatest threat facing the United States and other freedom-loving nations.

General Wedemeyer, who was commander in the China Theatre from 1944 to 1949, told a Farm and Home Week audience at Cornell University: "Americans can lose the heritage of personal freedom and spiritual values without a major military contest."

He urged the free world to take the offensive in what he called psychological warfare.

"Victories in the contest for the hearts and minds of men may be more important than military triumphs and make a military showdown unnecessary," he said.

"We must face up to the fact that the Soviet Union might gain control of some Western European countries, the Middle East and most of Asia through political subversion, economic pressures and fomenting of internal crisis."—United Press.

FRENCH CLAIM SUCCESS

Saigon, Mar. 19.
The bodies of 200 Vietnamese have been counted in the region northwest of Nam Dinh, southeast of Hanoi, which was taken by French-Union forces on Monday, a French Army communiqué claimed tonight.

The area is about 20 miles long and about 15 miles wide. The Union forces seized tommy-guns and mortars, the communiqué added.

The Nam Dinh operation, which began on March 10, was one of a series aimed at clearing the infiltrating Vietnamese forces from the Tonkin Delta.—Reuter.

WHY I LIKE BEING MY AGE... (45)

SOMEONE whose poise and elegance must be envied by thousands explains here her PHILOSOPHY FOR OVER-40's

By EVE PERRICK

THESE are the best years of my life," says Claudette Colbert. "These" means the
forties, and for Claudette,
with her girlish figure as noticeable as
her womanly charm, why shouldn't they
be?

Miss Colbert is approaching 46. All right—got that over.
Now let's start to analyse why everyone's favourite film star should find what
was once upon a time regarded as the middle years
such a happy time.

"Why shouldn't they be?"
says Miss Colbert.

"In France they believe
that no woman is worth
looking at unless she's over 35. Now America is coming to see things that way,
too."

Her domestic life bears out a theory I've always held—that the best mate for a career
woman whose job may appear
to outdazzle that of her husband
is a doctor.

"Quite right," said Claudette.
"We've had time enough—
16 years—to find out that medicine and movies are a good
mixture. We pool our interests,
although, to be fair, I'm inclined
to be a keener medical student
than my husband is a film fan.
Still we get along fine."

"That's the result of having served your apprenticeship in life. By now your big mistakes
—if you were ever going to make any—should be behind
you."

"You've learned tact and
tolerance—and how to be happy.
You can pick your parties and
not feel you're missing anything by refusing invitations if you're not in the mood."

'Doctor'

SOMETIMES, though, when
the wife of the throat
specialist emerges from behind
the film star, things can get hectic. Miss Colbert finds it hard to resist prescribing for the sigh. Once an electrician on the set where she was filming started to cough. "What you need,"
said Mrs. Pressman, "is some camphor and codine," and rang
up the pharmacy for a supply.

Whereupon the pharmacist
rang up Dr. Pressman, who was in the middle of an operation,
and asked him if it was all right
to let his wife have narcotics.
"Since then," confesses Dr.
Claudette, "my patients get only
druggies' medicines."

Just as much as picking the right husband, however, I suspect the secret has something to do with her early
decision to pick the best of both worlds. She has blended the Continental background she got
from her French parents into
the way of life of her adopted
country, America.

Achievement

HERE we have the international expert on high
fashion changing from her British "cushy" sweater, which has had a few pearls added to
it by a little man I know in New York, to a Balmain-style
made in Paris, but bearing the label of the impending American

thing.
To complete the outfit—a Dior-designed hat which was bought in Los Angeles and a beaver coat in place of the expected mink.

The suit, moreover, was the one that the 20-year-old wispywaited mannequins had modelled. It fitted Claudette
without an alteration. And that,
ladies, is an achievement at any age.

How does she keep that trim
eight stone, and shiny-skin look
of a teenager? Diet? Facials?
Expensive coiffures? Exercise?
A regular routine for work and play?

"Oh, no. No—that's not me at all," says Miss Colbert, true to her own fashion of saying "No."
In that individual, breathy way
which only Florence Desmond
can imitate.

"You see, I can't diet. In fact,
unless I eat every three or four hours, I feel faint. I've some sort of sugar deficiency, which is not altogether a bad thing to have."

THE GERMAN GENERALS WERE SO DELIGHTED

From CHARLES WIGHTON

Goettingen, Mar. 6.
"Herr General, a
sherry perhaps?" said
Lieut. Colonel Peregrine
Baratow of the Royal Irish Fusiliers in his regimental mess at Goettingen today.

His guest, the Herr General—
dark-suited former Major—General Friedrich Hossbach,
who just met the British when he fought Monty's 3rd British Division outside Dunkirk in 1940—clicked his heels. He bowed stiffly from the waist in
the best Prussian High Command manner, and told his Irish
host: "Delighted, I'm sure, Colonel."

The Royal Irish Fusiliers, now
on the Iron Curtain frontier,
were again making history. Officers of the regiment, in their dark blue mess uniforms, had invited German officers to be their guests at their regimental
day celebrations for the first time since the war.

The British officers had chosen
as guests, officers of the German
hussar regiment with which,
141 years ago, the Royal Irish Fusiliers made a historic forced
march at the battle of Barossa
in the Peninsular War.

Five German officers, three of them Generals, of the 14th Rellierregiment, formerly the 15th Hanoverian Hussars, accepted the invitation to drink
cocktails with their old British allies.

Mellowed by the friendly reception, General Hossbach confessed to the young British officers grouped round him at the pre-lunch cocktail party: "I have a great respect for you British soldiers. In 1940, I commanded a division in which the 14th Rellierregiment fought against the British in Belgium.
You beat me. My division lost 600 men in a single day."
The senior German general of the party, white-haired 69-

"You know, this isn't going to make me any too popular with the beauty-expert gals. But there it is. I've been treating my face the tough way for years, and it still seems to be
there—in spite of all the awful warnings."

This practical Frenchwoman
does not patronise the hair-
dresser's salon very much either.
Having found a style that suits
her, she sets it herself.

The Colbert coiffure goes up
in curls every night.

Her hobbies

FINALLY, the talented Miss Colbert can also paint. Her spare-time job while she is
here will be doing a portrait
from a photograph of Deborah Kerr's three-year-old Melanie
("She and the Kayes' Dena are the cutest kids in Hollywood").

She can also cook. But there's a prepared (and somewhat eccentric) plan behind
Claudette in the kitchen.

"I cook for my husband
about four times a year. That's to keep my hand in and to show him what he's missing.
Mostly we eat plain roasts—
beef and chicken are my favourites—but when I'm at
the stove things are more ambitious. I put on a super-colossal production which can't
fail to impress the customer."

"My mother gave me a wonderful French recipe for Lobster Americaine—a most spectacular affair—flaming brandy
and all that."

Well, there's the formula for
the best years of your life—a job, a home, a hobby, a satisfied
husband, plus attractiveness,
charm, and flaming brandy
four times a year.

My party piece

by CLAUDETTE
COLBERT

TAKE a lobster, cut into sections, season
with salt and cayenne pepper. (Put aside the creamy parts and coiled
bits in butter and oil, with chopped onion.
Add chopped shallots at the last moment.
Four brandy over and set aside.)
Heat in white wine and fish stock.
Add some chopped tomatoes. Cook 20 minutes. Pound and mix with white of egg and cream and pour into a mould.
Reduce the cooking sauce and blend it together with the creamy parts and chopped coiled bits. Together with a piece of butter strain and coat the pieces.

FIRST STOP TO THE WHITE HOUSE

Concord, N.H., Mar. 11.
THE town of Concord
reminds me very much
of Dewsbury, York-
shire, or Preston, Lanca-
shire, except that Dewsbury
and Preston are gay-
naughtier, and more sophisticated.

New Hampshire is the
"Granite State," Concord is
a granite town, and the people are as solid and dependable as granite. They do not go in much for pleasure or fripperies.

Even this significant primary election—this fight between General Eisenhower and Senator Robert Taft—has not excited them.

Modest posters along the drab
main street say: "Let's pave
the way. Get out and vote. The nation is watching us." Actually,
the world is watching the folk
here; but they do not show they are aware of the scrutiny. They are not in any way nervous or self-conscious.

With suspicion

If they are being watched, they are certainly doing plenty of watching themselves—watching
the visiting reporters, the
cameramen, the newsreel crews,
and the professional politicians
from Boston and New York and
from as far away as California.
They regard the visitors with
some suspicion, although if you are English you get special treatment.

I made my reservation at the Eagle Hotel, bang opposite the Georgian State House, rather late, but when I arrived the
porter, who is also the liftman,
waiter, doorman,

official greeter,
and mobile in-
formation bureau, said:
"English, eh? I am too, in a
way. At least,
my wife is—she
comes from Wiltshire. Most
of the folk
around here are
of British stock;
that's why we
call ourselves New Englanders."
There is not much that is new
about the Eagle Hotel. My room
is a ripe antique with faded
brown flowered wallpaper and no bathroom. It is dingy and ancient. It is as hot as an oven
and as infamed as a furnace.
Usually at this time of the year the weather in New Hampshire is near zero; the past few days have been mild—around 40
degrees—and no one seems able to turn down or off the blistering
central heating in the buildings.

Not as planned

SO it was sweet and suffer. But as much as the politicians—they are really in travail.
The election is not turning out exactly as planned.

The managers and backers of General Eisenhower are worried.
Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, the handsome organiser of the Eisenhower campaign, and Governor Sherman Adams expected
a cakewalk. They thought the magic of Eisenhower's name and
the deep baritone voice of Governor Adams, plus an imported comedian or two and a
dance band, would do the trick.
All 14 delegates for Eisenhower, they said. Top of the popularity poll for Eisenhower,
they sang. But then along came Concord, the best of the best
ploughing diligently
through the snow, tramping from
one tiny meeting to another, and meeting the people.

New Hampshire voters like this. They will probably give Eisenhower a majority of the delegates; they will probably
elect him handsomely in the popularity or beauty contest (Taft is handicapped in this respect) but Taft has made himself felt.

No stunts

THE General has been missed.
His headquarters are busy
and bustling, but all they have to offer are pamphlets "Where Eisenhower Stands," a collection of extracts from statement made long ago, and a brochure which says: "Six out
of nine living Republican Governors support Eisenhower." Concord's citizens say: "Is that so? Well, we kinda would have liked to have heard the General himself answer this dilemma Taft."

Whatever the result here, it is certain that Eisenhower wants to be President. He will have to come back home soon—
or later—preferably sooner—
and appear on the platforms
himself. People in democracies
will not vote indefinitely for a voice on a gramophone record
or a portrait in a committee
room.
This primary, or prelude,
election is utterly unlike a Presidential convention. There have been no stunts or circus antics and little ballyhoo. I have seen more posters at a by-

election in a tiny English town.

Everything is being done
very quietly. The other night Taft walked into the lobby
of the Eagle Hotel guarded by a lone policeman. He blinked in the strong light, tried a smile—
rather ineffective compared with the Eisenhower grin—and then walked uncertainly to the dining-room. No one clapped,
no one cheered. Concord is not demonstrative.

A little while later Taft addressed a meeting and I went there to watch and listen. The Senator said British farmers
were suffering from Socialism,
when suddenly a shrill English
schoolboy voice said: "The Senator is crooked in his statement."

Eisenhower to win

THE audience turned uneasily in their chairs. However, it was merely an English schoolboy
exercising his democratic right.
Two miles from here is the exclusive preparatory school of St. Paul's, and under an exchange system there are a handful of English schoolboys there.

They have enjoyed the election as much as anyone, and go
around like a debating team,
trying to stir up a rumpus. Concord accepts them uncomplainingly.

Concord, the State capital, has
a population of about 35,000,
and it lives by farming, insurance, publishing and the manufacture of belting, lumber
products, electrical appliances,
and harness.

It is a simple town, liking
simple, thrifty people. Maybe that is why it has taken to Taft, even though it is unlikely
to give him the victory.

The other candidates have not
made much of
an impression.

Swashbuckling
Harold Stassen,
from the Middle West, who has been trying to
be elected President almost
since he was in
knee breeches,
is running in
the Republican
primary.

But no one gives him a chance.

They say here: "That young feller's too busy answering questions no one ever asked him."

General MacArthur's name
has been entered and withdrawn and entered again, but,
anyway, MacArthur is not interested.

Then there is the Democratic primary, in which President
Truman and Senator Estes
Kefauver are entered. The President could not find time or inclination to come here, but Senator Kefauver, the coon-skin
capped crusader from the South, has been around for weeks.

All in all, my guess is Eisenhower to win his department,
but not overwhelmingly, and President Truman to win his convincingly.

What are the people saying?
Precious little. There are no
pubs here and no wagging
tongues.

Only diversions

CONCORD is barren of taverns,
bars, or cocktail lounges, although you can get a drink with
your meals in the hotel restaurant.

I thought that perhaps on Saturday night there might be
some gaiety, but the only diversions are two or three cinemas, and they seem to show
nothing but cowboy films. The manufacturing city of Manchester, 18 miles away, has more bustle and gusto.

It is rather like Lancashire's
own Manchester, but nothing like as big. There are about 80,000 people in New Hamp-shire's Manchester, and most of them are in the textile and shoe trades. Many of them are
from Canada and speak French.
The biggest poster in Manchester advertises a new car
"Firestone De Solo" so I
shouldn't be surprised if some of the voters want to put down
their vote for Firestone or Mr
De Solo.

In Manchester, too, the people
in their lumber jackets, snow-
boots, and check shirts don't like to talk much to strangers.
They say: "We will all know the result by Wednesday—so what's
the hurry—why, guess?"

Press for Taft

If the people haven't much to say, the newspapers, as always, have. A majority of the Press in New Hampshire is backing Taft, although Eisenhower has considerable support.
Actually, now Hampshire
will be glad when we all pack
our bags and get out. It is pretty satisfied with things as they are here. The air is good,
the food is plentiful—much
cheaper than in New York—
and trade is brisk, if not booming.

"He's a 'one man' dog, but I'm not the man."

• BY • THE • WAY • by Beachcomber

THE antics indulged in by the various airlines to counter the howling boredom of journeys by air are worth a word or two.

No longer does one arrive anywhere free of charge, as it used to be. There was a time when a traveler, who had been given a bit of pocket money, a downy pillow, and a Pomeranian dog, found that he was expected to pay for the dog's dinner. At any moment he expected to find that his baggage was being searched, and that a week's holiday, all expenses paid, will be given to the first passenger to guess what country the plane is passing over.

Fun aboard
LATER on, when airlines are big, there will be horses to ride round the saloon, a fish-ship aboard, a miniature skating rink, a water slide, a play, a circus, a tug, a future-traveling, and lectures by card writers. And amid all this, a good deal of the air-dust will move to and fro, giving a non-stop manna-show, with free clothes for anybody who guesses the weight of a sausage.

P.T.O.

YOUR BIRTHDAY... By STELLA

THURSDAY, MARCH 20

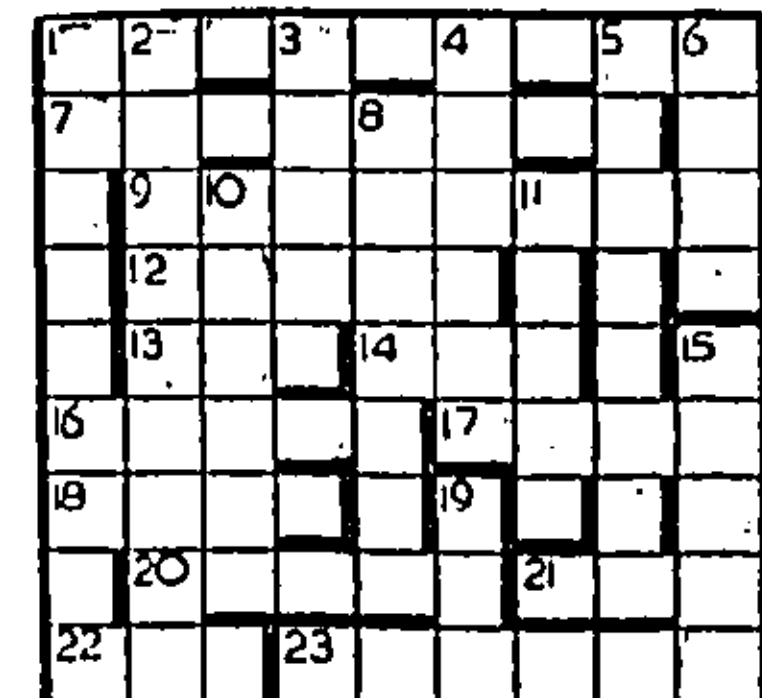

BORN today, you are not the type to do things "by halves". The smallest detail receives the same enthusiasm as does a grand project. You utilize a lot of energy that way—but you have a lot of your command just don't abuse it. Fortunately, you have considerable executive ability and know how to use it effectively. Your memory is excellent and you are what is known as a "quick study". This would be very valuable if you were to go into the theatre.

You have a deep interest in the mysterious and the occult. Although you may not appear to believe in it, you don't disbelieve in it. You have a strong feeling for science and like to see proof of everything.

FRIDAY, MARCH 21

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—Your friends can be important to your happiness. Make compromises to hold them.
ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—Regular routine is the best for you right now. Given instructions, follow them implicitly.
Taurus (Apr. 21-May 21)—Use your personal charm to get what you want out of life. Talk over the future plans. Ask and receive a favour.
GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—One person can do just so much. Accept this before trying to take on any new responsibilities.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Rules Are Flexible
So Play Accordingly

By OSWALD JACOBY

THERE are only two sound reasons for failing to return partner's suit. The rule of old-fashioned bridge players. "The first reason is that you have no card in the suit to return; the second is sudden death."

We're not so rigid about rules in modern bridge. You return your partner's suit more often than not, but you must switch to a different suit without fearing that people will talk about your behind your back. The hand shows today illustrates a successful switch that was based on sound reasoning. I'm afraid most players would miss the correct play because it goes a little against the grain.

West opened the Jack of spades, dummy played low, and East won with the king. East knew that his partner had led the top of a

Cleopatra and the cod fish

THE Marquis de l'Hotel de Fois de Morue, who stocked an ornamental pond at Figeac with salmon, would have appreciated the angle who was sacked from his club for buying a large fish, secretly and then "catching" it. Plutarch tells a story of Cleopatra which shows that she had a sense of humor. She was one day flitting Antony, and calling him the world's greatest fisherman. With a delighted smile, as they sat by the river bank, Antony began to fish. While he was talking her ear and talking nonsense to her, a slave, previously instructed, dove silently and tied an enormous salmon to his line and to the end of his line, and gave a pull. Antony hauled in, and found a large fish. "Wonderful!" cried the Marquis. "You can even catch a fish!" Antony hung his head in shame, while the assembled company laughed heartily.

sequence, so South obviously had the queen of spades. This meant that spades could not be established quickly, and only fast tricks could possibly defeat the contract.

East therefore shifted to clubs—by leading a low card to dummy's king. He knew that this would defeat the contract, but he did not want to take a second round of clubs. It was also clear that the contract was unmakeable if West could not get in at an early stage.

As it happened, South had to knock out the ace of diamonds to have any play at all for nine tricks. West returned a club after taking his ace and that was the end of South's chances for game.

Household Hints

If you are planning a breakfast in your kitchen, allow enough knee space. This is particularly important in the case of a low bar where chairs are used instead of stools.

Delicious Soup

Cream of Curry Soup is really delicious, and a nice suggestion for those in search of something different in the soup line. Blend 2½ tsp. flour, 2 tsp. butter, melted, and 3 pints chicken stock; cook for 15 min., adding salt to taste and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Moisten sp. curry powder with some stock and add one beaten egg yolk.

Brass is a good choice for fireproof accessories such as ashtrays, grates or fenders and fire tools and screen, also a Cape Cod lighter if you wish. Brass has a light-reflecting quality, but if you do not have time or energy to keep brass polished, better choose wrought iron.

Q—The bidding has been:
 North Pass 1 Spade Pass
 1 Heart Pass 1 Spade Pass
 2 Diamonds Pass 2 Spades K-J-7-5
 2 Hearts Q-8-5-4, Diamond 4, Clubs A-8-3. What do you do?

A—Bid four clubs. Your partner will probably think you are showing a club suit, but you will raise hearts vigorously later on, thus making it clear that your earlier club bid had been intended to show an ace.

You will not settle for less than a small slam with this hand, and your only problem is to be as informative as possible to enable your partner to decide for or against a grand slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is as follows: as in the question just answered, you South hold: Spades K-J-7-5, Hearts 4-2, Diamonds 9-8-3, Clubs Q-J-8-7. What do you do?

NEWS FROM DEAL

Mr. T. O. Hare
 "Here we are again," writes Mr. Hare from Deal. "Don't try to tell me how long you will live. To me, death is in one of five schoolmasters—the others are Messrs. Angering, Clacton, Deal and Exmouth. Each of whom, every August, lends his house to one of the others. Each of them lives in a resort which is the namesake of one of the others; no two of them live in the same resort. And none of them, this year, is spending his holiday in the resort of which he is the namesake. Mr. Clacton and family are living in Mr. Exmouth's house, and Mr. Deal resident is at Exmouth. The namesake of the resort where Mr. Clacton is spending his holiday is spending his own holiday at Exmouth."

Where is Mr. Exmouth?

Blackhawks Came Back From Macao Visit With Their Wings Clipped

By "GRANDSTAND"

The Junior League Blackhawks, who made a lightning tour of Macao over the week-end, returned to port with their wings clipped, as they dropped both ends of a double-header on hairline decisions, losing to the All-Stars and the Rest of Macao by 2-1 and 3-2 respectively.

Joe Britto pitched the first game and yielded only two scattered singles while Rennie Barretto for the Hawks gave up five solid hits for the Hawks' first reversal, and in the second game Donel Remedios was yanked from the mound after he had allowed three runs to trickle over the plate when he failed to locate the strike zone.

The Macao outfit was coached by Mario "Red" Pereira while Blackhawk coach Rene Sequiera, who stayed behind to take a shot at the battling title, was replaced by Charlie Figueiredo, who coached the Hawks. There is a story around town that Red Pereira and Charlie Figueiredo tossed for sides, but you can believe it or not.

Pennants were exchanged prior to the start of the game, Gino Roliz and Alvaro Souza representing the home and visiting teams respectively, and afterwards both teams were entertained to a tea party by Mr. & Mrs. Andrew Souza.

PLENTY OF THRILLS
The All-Star game provided fans with plenty of thrills as Macao's star short-stop, Padre Fauchingbauer, sparked a two run uprising in the first inning on a smashing line-drive with ducks in the pond, despite the fact that the Hawks pulled a "shift" on him.

The Hawks replied with a tally in the third chapter when Rennie Barretto singled and was moved around the sacks on a wild throw by catcher Shaw, and those were the only runs of the game as both sides displayed brilliant fielding.

In the sixth inning the tourists had a chance of evening the count when Eddie Loureiro came in to bat with a runner on third and only one away, but the local slugger merely stirred the air for a strikeout.

In the eighth, Gogo Santos toed the rubber for the Macao reserve side and after Donel Remedios of the Hawks connected for a three run lead, Rennie Barretto was recalled to the mound, and although he hurled a good game to shutout the opposition for the remainder of the tussle, the Hawk's bats failed to connect frequently enough to overcome the handicap. They dropped 3-2.

The only consolation the Hawks had over the week-end was the Wildfires' upset over the Delawares, thus eliminating one of the potential challengers for League supremacy.

This now leaves the Rexes with a slim mathematical chance, but this Sunday will tell the rest of the story as the Hawks are down to tangle with the Rexes at 12.30 p.m. in a last minute change of schedule.

The Midweek League, which provided some good efforts, the best being the superb mound performance by Benny Babida of the Dodgers who whiffed 11 of the Kittens, and only allowed one hit as Nado Remedios connected for a single in the fifth frame to spoil his perfect achievement.

The St. Joseph's outfit seem to be the heaviest with the willow as L. Neves and P. Souza played out homers, but then they were matched against the Wahoes, who are still green as grass.

A Meeting of the Council will take place at the Club Lusitano this evening at 5.30 p.m. during which several important rulings regarding qualification for the batting title will be made.

Third Round Of Blarney Stone Shield Tourney

Yesterday at Happy Valley seven more games of the Blarney Stone seven-a-side rugger competition were played, the closing the third round of the tourney. Quarter, semi-finals, and finals will be played off on Saturday.

Wills A defeated Tamar Tigers 6-5 in a hard-fought game which the sailors lost by not adapting their tactics to the damp conditions prevailing. At that they missed a penalty in the last five minutes which would have made all the difference.

Tamar C beat Bitter, beating 23 Red Regt. B by a try and a converted try to nil. The winners kept the ball high and followed up fast which was what their seniors should have done.

58 Medium Regt. RA beat 37 (Strang) Battery 9-0. Outclassed, this game little team played well and tickled hard throughout, putting up a good showing for their first year of rugger.

Dampier Storks were too good for 3 RTR B. With only three minutes' play left their centre got a try, later converted, from a maul on the line and a run-away try from halfway just on time clinched matters.

Talkoo, most of whom have a date at a wedding on Saturday, conceded a walkover to RAF B. In a friendly match they won 6-3.

Club A got the better of 43 Field Regt B by a scant 6 points to nil. J. Henderson nipping down the line for a try in the first spell and D. Henderson getting over in the corner towards the end of the game.

Wayfoong were given a fright by 45 Field Regt A who led 3-0 at the turnabout after scoring from a forward scramble under the posts. In the second spell Layton finally flashed through for a score which Craig converted and just on time another forward try was converted also by Craig, so the bankers won comfortably after all.

ANNUAL RUGGER GAME
The following will represent the Club 1st XV against Wayfoong in the annual rugger encounter on Wednesday, April 2, at the Club ground—Tuncle. T. Roberts, D. Henderson, Turville, Campbell, V.O. Roberts, J.H. Henderson (Captain), Winyard, Robertson, A. McCallum, Tolamo, Minto, Lambert, Farquharson, Warne.

Kurt Nielsen Beats Sedgman In Straight Sets

England Beats United States At Ice Hockey

London, Mar. 19.
England overwhelmed the United States by 11 goals to two in the Churchill Cup ice hockey match at the Harringay Arena tonight.

The period scores were 1-1, 1-1 and 9-0.

After two hard fought periods a keen finish seemed likely, but the England players completely dominated the final session, put on six goals in the first 11 minutes of that period and with beautiful teamwork kept the Americans on the defensive for long stretches.

At Wembley tomorrow, England and Canada, the holders, meet to decide the holders of the Cup for 1952.—Reuter.

Police Nab Air Pilot

Cairo, Mar. 19. The Egyptian Police today arrested a Saudi Arabian air pilot on charges of trying to smuggle $5,000 worth of gold to Jiddah, port city for Mecca.

Airport police, searching a basket owned by the pilot, Kamel Hilmy, found nearly eight kilograms of gold hidden under fruit.

The jewellery, estimated to be worth $5,000, was seized just before the basket was to be put on a Saudi Arabian plane taking off for Jiddah. Hilmy, who was not piloting the aircraft, was held in a police station as an investigation began.—United Press.

ATLANTIC COMMAND PROBLEMS

London, Mar. 19. Details of the Atlantic Pact Command arrangements, under which Greek and Turkish ground and air forces will operate, are now under consideration at Supreme Headquarters, Mr. Nigel Birch, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Defence, told the House of Commons today.

"Turkish and Greek naval forces will remain at present under their national Chiefs of Staff pending a solution of the command problem, which is now under consideration by the Standing Group of NATO," he said in answer to questions.

"Meanwhile, Turkish and Greek navy forces are working in close co-operation with allied NATO Powers in the Mediterranean."

Mr. Birch said "The ground and air forces of Greece and Turkey assigned to NATO will operate under the overall command of the Supreme Allied Commander, Europe, through Admiral Canby, Commander-in-Chief, Southern Europe."

Answering a further question, Mr. Birch did not think that Turkish and Greek forces would come under the command of an Italian admiral.

"But I would not wish to comment further in view of the discussions now in progress," he added.

Mr. Emanuel Shinwell, Minister of Defence in the former Labour Government, said that some members would take offence if the whole of the Mediterranean Naval Command was transferred to naval officers other than those who represent the United Kingdom.

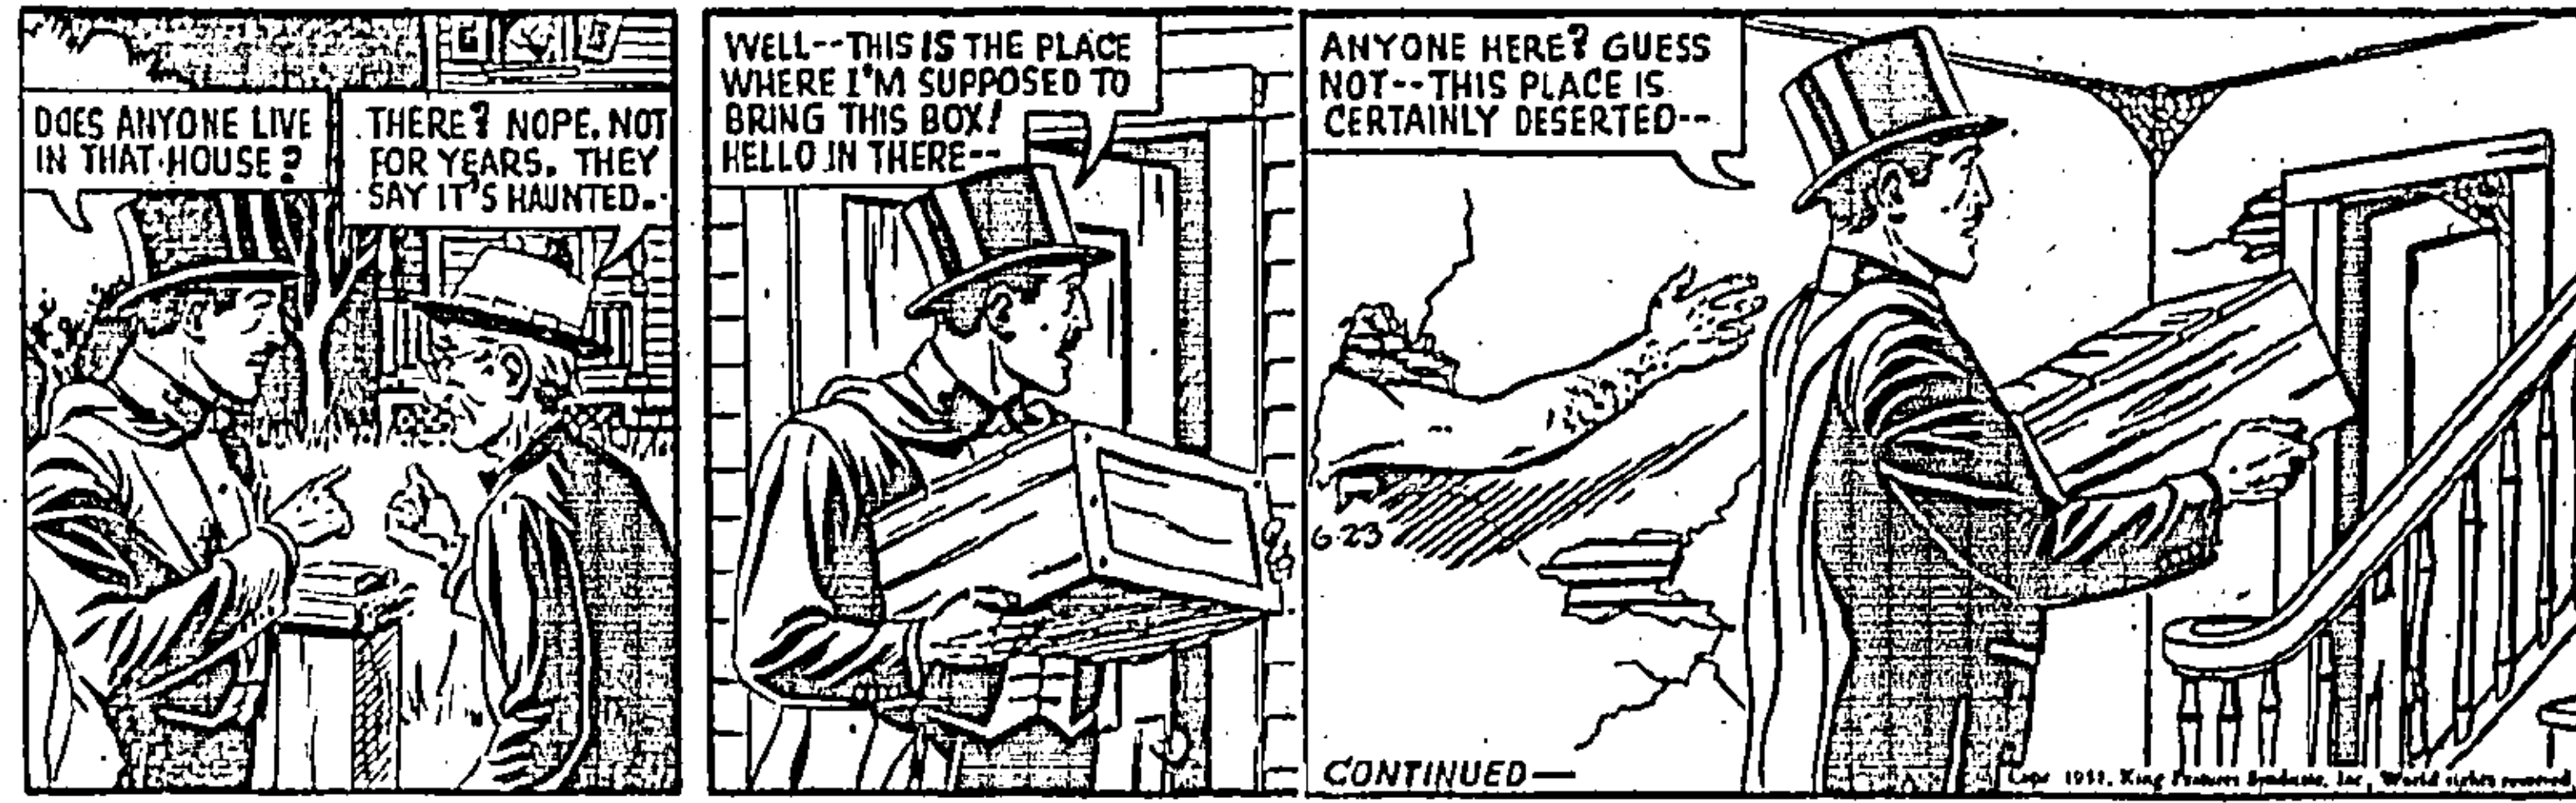

Mr. Birch said it was unwise to comment while negotiations were in progress.—Reuter.
